DEPUTY CHAIR'S EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

As a Member and Deputy Chair of the South Australian Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Commission (SAMEAC), I am proud of the achievements of SAMEAC in 2013-14 and the important role it is playing in promoting cultural diversity as one of South Australia's great strengths. The past twelve months have been a period of challenges and opportunities for culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities, in particular new and emerging communities. With each day that passes, we see the breadth of the contribution that migrants and refugees make to the social, economic and cultural life of South Australia, enriching communities in the metropolitan and regional areas and showcasing our State as an exemplar of peace, harmony and acceptance.

As in 2012-13, this past year has seen a continuation of the growing interest in multiculturalism. SAMEAC's reach now extends to all sections of the community, bringing people into the fold to better understand cultural diversity, appreciate the different customs and traditions of the more than 200 different cultures represented in South Australia, and respecting the need to remain vigilant against racism and discrimination.

There is no question that South Australian society owes much to multiculturalism. People from culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) backgrounds contribute significantly to our community and economy through their participation, enterprise, diversity and sheer hard work. Across South Australia, there is a very high level of support for multiculturalism, and recognition of the benefits that it brings.

Much work has been undertaken by SAMEAC, facilitating opportunities for CALD communities to showcase their culture and heritage to the wider South Australian community. This includes supporting the participation of groups in iconic events such as the Australia Day Parade, the Christmas Pageant, the ANZAC Day Eve Youth Vigil, and football and soccer games. The inaugural Multicultural Festival held in the Rundle Mall on Sunday, 3 November 2013 marked a high point in celebrating multiculturalism in this state.

The 2014 Multicultural Calendar includes a wide range of cultural and religious events that are recognised and celebrated during the year. The calendars were distributed widely to CALD organisations, schools, government and nongovernment agencies, and other interested stakeholders in South Australia. In 2013-14, Multicultural SA continued to augment the calendar with an online calendar which allows new events to be included as they are organised.

Despite our success as a multicultural community, there are still many challenges for new arrivals seeking to adapt to a life in a new country and integrate into our community.

The successful settlement of migrants and refugees remained a focus in 2013-14. Between Multicultural SA and SAMEAC, work in this area has included:

- holding a community consultation forum with CALD communities, government agencies (local, state and Commonwealth) and service providers to facilitate the resolution of settlement issues for new migrant groups
- co-chairing the South Australian Settlement Planning Committee with the Department of Immigration and Citizenship to improve the coordination and targeting of settlement services
- identifying issues impacting on new and emerging communities in regional South Australia and working with agencies to improve service delivery in these area.

SAMEAC recognises the significant role that CALD community organisations play in supporting their communities and in fostering multiculturalism in South Australia. During 2013-14, a total of more than $650,000 in grant funding was administered to support cultural diversity and CALD community initiatives including:

- A panel comprising of three SAMEAC members assessed applications for funding received under the Multicultural One-off Grant program, with recommendations provided to the Executive Director, Policy and Community Development, Department for Communities and Social Inclusion (DCSI). The Multicultural One-off grants supported community organisations to plan, organise and stage various festivals, to manage community education, learning and development projects, to purchase equipment and to deliver initiatives that used media to promote multiculturalism.
- SAMEAC recommended support for, and members attended, numerous festivals, cultural and religious events including the following celebrations: 2013 Adelaide & Metropolitan Malayalee Association (Onam); Newroz Festival (Kurdish); 2014 INDOfest (Indonesian); Epiphany Festival (Greek); 15th Australia-New Zealand Hungarian Cultural Convention (Hungarian); Kodomo-no-hi Children's Day (Japanese); 'Three Weddings and a Cook' (Malaysian); Year Vaisakhi Celebration Dinner (Sikh); 2014 Schützenfest (German); 50 years of Kenya Independence Celebrations (Kenya); Yuan Xiao Lantern Festival (Chinese); Independence Day Celebration (Peruvian); 2013 Eid Al Fitr Festival (Muslim) and Vidovdan Celebration (Serbian).

SAMEAC continued to play a key role in supporting and promoting the Governor's Multicultural Awards. This program aims to encourage and acknowledge initiatives that foster an open, inclusive, cohesive and equitable multicultural society, in which cultural, linguistic, religious and productive diversity is understood, valued and supported.

Once again, the applications received for the 2013 Multicultural Awards were of a high standard with 33 finalists selected across ten categories, including individual and community contributions, public and private sector awards, and efforts in specialist fields. Over the past six years these Awards have seen a total of more than 750 nominations provided, resulting in 61 winners.

SAMEAC and its advisory committees held a number of community consultations this year, including one major consultation in Kilburn in Adelaide's north-western suburbs, in September 2013. Community members representing CALD community organisations and service providers had the opportunity to raise any issues with a panel of leaders from a range of local, State and Commonwealth Government departments.

The consultation provided government leaders and SAMEAC members with the opportunity to meet the community, hear their views, and become informed about issues affecting a range of different community groups. The topics that were raised ranged from accessing community meeting places, to facilitating employment. Some questions were answered by the government representatives during the consultation, while others will inform the future agendas of SAMEAC and various government departments.

The Interpreting and Translating Centre (ITC) had another productive year, providing 37,296 interpreting and translating assignments (up from 33,700 in 2012-13) in 104 languages. In 2013-14, ITC recruited and trained 20 new interpreters and translators representing several languages. However, translations experienced some decline in total documents translated down to 1,953 from 2,340 the previous year in keeping with prior trends in this area.

In 2013-14, the Chairman attended over 400 community and business meetings, official functions and community events, and delivered speeches at most of these. These events were a wonderful showcase of South Australia's cultural diversity and the richness that traditions and customs from other lands have brought to our state. Of course, the success of these events relies heavily on the dedication, goodwill and sacrifice of volunteers who assist their respective organisations.

With over 200 different cultural groups in South Australia, the scale of South Australia's diversity is enormous. Following is a sample of the events attended by the Chairman.

The number of invitations received by the Chairman is a reflection of the SAMEAC's exposure, its reach into CALD communities and the impact of multiculturalism more broadly. Attendance at these events has also helped to raise awareness about the important role and work of SAMEAC.

2013-14 also saw SAMEAC members attend Citizenship Ceremonies hosted by a number of metropolitan and regional councils, including: Adelaide Hills, Barossa, Campbelltown, Charles Sturt, Holdfast Bay, Marion, Mount Barker, Mount Gambier, Norwood Payneham and St Peters, Prospect, Salisbury, Unley, West Torrens and Yankalilla.

The work of the advisory committees in regional South Australia is especially important as it ensures that CALD people, in particular those from new and emerging communities, have their voices heard by SAMEAC members. To this end, I extend my sincere thanks for their tireless efforts to engage and include communities from all cultural backgrounds in the rich diversity of South Australia.

After a year of transition, 2013-14 was a year of consolidation with Multicultural SA becoming integrated into DCSI.

The 2014 State election also resulted in a new Minister for Multicultural Affairs, with the Hon Zoe Bettison MP replacing the Hon Jennifer Rankine MP.

SAMEAC's relationship with the Minister Bettison was a key focus in the last months of 2013 -14 with the Minister attending the SAMEAC meeting held on 9 April 2014 to meet its members.

SAMEAC would like to extend its sincere thanks to Hon Jennifer Rankine MP for her support of the SAMEAC and its work during her time as Minister for Multicultural Affairs and wishes her well with her portfolio of Education and Childhood Development.

In closing, I would like to thank the staff of Multicultural SA who helped to advance multiculturalism in our great State.

BUILDING COMMUNITY CAPACITY

Multicultural Grants Program

For many years, funding has been provided under the Multicultural Grants Program to multicultural and ethnic community organisations to:

- increase understanding of the culturally diverse community in which we live
- · celebrate and value cultural diversity
- improve equality and acceptance in society
- increase participation by South Australians of all backgrounds in society.

Community organisations apply for funding for one-off grants to develop and strengthen multicultural communities in South Australia. Projects aim to support an open, inclusive, cohesive and equitable multicultural society, where cultural, linguistic, and religious diversity is understood, valued and supported.

Grant applications are assessed on merit, by the Grants Advisory Committee, which is made up of three SAMEAC members. The Committee's recommendations are then approved by DCSI.

In 2013-14, funding was provided to approximately 200 community organisations for festivals, events, equipment and furniture, cultural awareness programs and education and learning projects. A list of the 2013-14 approved Multicultural Grants is provided below.

PROMOTING MULTICULTURALISM

SAMEAC places an emphasis on increasing the participation of CALD communities in major public events. This serves dual purposes of facilitating participation and inclusion of members from these communities, and showcasing the richness and uniqueness of South Australia's cultural diversity.

SAMEAC supports diverse community organisations' involvement in many activities, and particularly the opportunity to share cultural activities, performances, displays and festivals, with the wider South Australian community. In 2013-14, SAMEAC's Showcasing Multiculturalism Program has supported the participation of CALD communities in iconic South Australian events including the Christmas Pageant, the Australia Day Parade and the ANZAC Commemorations as well as other major public events.

Christmas Pageant

2013 was the tenth year in which South Australian multicultural communities were involved in the Christmas Pageant. Groups from the Italian, Irish, Chinese, Romani, Peruvian and Burmese communities participated alongside the popular 'Christmas around the World' theme float. Afro-Oz Music provided the musical entertainment and was stationed on the float. By participating in events such as this we build a successful and stronger multicultural and inclusive society.

Australia Day Community Parade

Adelaide's Australia Day Community Parade is fast becoming an iconic event that celebrates multiculturalism and the diversity of people who call South Australia home. SAMEAC organised the participation of more than 70 community groups, representing 50 ethnicities, in the Australia Day Community Parade on 26 January 2014. In total, more than 2,000 people from culturally diverse backgrounds participated. Prizewinning groups included the Overseas Chinese Students Association (Judge's Choice), Afghan Islamic Cultural Association of SA (Best Music), Falun Dafa (Most Creative) and the Adelaide Kurdish Youth Society (Best Costumes).

ANZAC Day

On 24 April 2014, young people from 11 different CALD backgrounds participated in an ANZAC Day Eve Youth Vigil. Young people from Afghanistan, Burma, Greece, Ireland, Serbia, Scotland, Tonga, Sudan and Ukraine backgrounds placed war related books, gifts and flowers on the steps of the South Australian War Memorial on North Terrace, Adelaide as tokens of remembrance. The gesture, part of the annual Youth Vigil staged by the Returned and Services League (RSL), is designed to provide an opportunity for culturally diverse youth to recognise those who gave their lives in the service of the country. The young people wore national dress reflecting their cultural background and were encouraged to wear their ancestors' medals.

After ANZAC Day, Multicultural SA made arrangements for a member of SAMEAC, the RSL and two winners of the Premier's ANZAC spirit School Prize to visit Renmark Primary School to speak to students about multiculturalism and donate the Youth Vigil books to the school library. The visit was scheduled for August 2014.

Partnership with Football Leagues

In 2013-14 SAMEAC continued its partnership with the South Australian National Football League (SANFL) to hold an annual Multicultural Round. The Multicultural Round was scheduled for July 2014, showcasing a range of culturally diverse performances to the South Australian public.

A partnership between SAMEAC and the Port Adelaide Football Club of the Australian Football League (AFL) saw the advent of a Multicultural Round in July 2013. The Chairman attended the match between Port Adelaide and Hawthorn.

The and Multicultural SA staff also met with Port Power Community Inc representatives to discuss ideas for the Multicultural Round program relating to the football match between Port Adelaide and Melbourne to be held at Adelaide Oval on 20 July 2014.

Governor's Multicultural Awards

This year SAMEAC once again supported and promoted the Governor's Multicultural Awards. The Awards are open to everyone in the community, and aim to honour outstanding contributions to promoting social harmony and inclusivity and the positive influence of cultural diversity in the community.

In 2013, an independent panel of nine judges, chaired by His Honour Judge Rauf Soulio, Chair of the Migrant Resource Centre of South Australia, was assembled to determine the winners of the fifth Governor's Multicultural Awards.

The applications received were of a particularly high calibre. A total of 33 finalists were selected across ten categories, and on 18 February 2014, His Excellency Rear Admiral Kevin Scarce AC CSC RANR, Governor of South Australia, hosted a reception to present the awards for 2013. The award winners are listed below.

Refugee Week

Each year, SAMEAC supports Refugee Week in South Australia. Refugee Week is held across Australia each year to coincide with World Refugee Day on 20 June. In 2014 in South Australia, more than 45 events were held to celebrate the contribution by refugees to South Australia as well as the suffering and history of the refugee experience to our State. Events included soccer matches, workshops, panel seminars, performances, poetry, story-telling, social functions, barbecues, exhibitions and community events, which were coordinated by councils, schools, churches and community groups and organisations. On 16 June 2014, the Chairman attended the SA Refugee Week launch. He also delivered the 'Vote of Thanks' at the Australian Refugee Association's 2014 Oration on 28 June 2014.

Inaugural Multicultural Festival

The Inaugural South Australian Multicultural Festival was held on Sunday, 3 November 2013, inviting all South Australians to join together to celebrate the diversity across our society. The Festival was highly successful event with approximately 80,000 people in attendance. The Multicultural Festival included 34 stall holders and 40 performing groups, representing 66 CALD organisations and 50 different ethnicities. The stalls showcased art, craft and food, and the performances included dance and music from around the world. Funding for the festival was provided by DCSI.

Multicultural Events Calendar

A Multicultural Events Calendar was published containing information on 2014 festivals, days of religious significance and other multicultural events in South Australia. The annual Multicultural Calendar was distributed to approximately 4,000 communities and organisations, schools, public libraries, government officials, boards and tribunals and interested individuals. The calendar is also available online, at www.multicultural.sa.gov.au/events.

In 2013-14, a new and improved online events calendar was developed, which now allows communities to submit details of their upcoming celebrations and days of significance online – all in a new, user-friendly format.

MoSAic

Multicultural SA now produces MoSAic, a bi-monthly newsletter with Multicultural SA as well as SAMEAC news that is available on the Multicultural SA website. It can be accessed at www.multicultural.sa.gov.au

ACCESS AND EQUITY

SAMEAC is involved in many activities that aim to ensure that no person living in South Australia faces barriers to accessing information and services because of their CALD background. SAMEAC is also pro-active in addressing issues of real or perceived prejudice and discrimination when they arise in the local community. Some of these initiatives are listed below.

Access and Equity Strategy

In January 2014, the South Australian Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Commission (SAMEAC) endorsed the Access and Equity Guidelines for a Multicultural South Australia. The Guidelines were developed jointly by Multicultural SA and SAMEAC.

The intent of the Guidelines is to ensure that Government agencies provide services which:

- are accessible to all people who are eligible
- are designed and delivered in a manner which is responsive to people from CALD communities
- · result in equitable outcomes for all.

The Guidelines contain 27 strategies which constitute best practice in supporting access and equity in the areas of communication, program and service delivery, policy, accountability, human resources and leadership.

Community Consultations

SAMEAC held a major community consultation in Adelaide's north-western and inner-northern suburbs on 22 September 2013. The consultation focussed on community organisations from the Charles Sturt, Port Adelaide Enfield and Prospect Local Government Areas.

Approximately 100 community members attended, addressing questions to a panel of 16 representatives from local, state and federal government, across a range of portfolios. The questions raised covered a variety of topics from accessing community meeting places, to facilitating employment. Some questions were answered on the night, while others will inform the future initiatives of SAMEAC and various other government departments.

Initiatives to increase skills recognition and employment

In 2013-14, SAMEAC continued to work closely with Department for Further Education, Employment, Science and Technology (DFEEST). In 2014, the Chairman met with the Minister for Employment, Higher Education and Skills and senior officers to promote further arrangements to support improved employment pathways for new migrants.

Parliamentary Receptions

In July 2013, the Honourable Jennifer Rankine MP, the then Minister for Multicultural Affairs hosted a reception for South Australia's Muslim communities at Parliament House. The reception celebrated Eid al-Fitr, a celebration to mark the end of the fasting month of Ramadan, a time in the Islamic calendar when Muslims thank Allah for a blessed life. Eid al-fitr is also a time for sharing, where families come together in prayer and give food to their friends, neighbours and those in need. The reception featured traditional Afghan music, singing in Dari, and a reading from the Qur'an.

Policing for a Multicultural Society Awards

The Policing for a Multicultural Society Award moved into its fourth year, after being initiated in 2009. In 2013-14, SAMEAC once again a Policing for a Multicultural Society Award to a police cadet in each graduating recruit course, who showed the highest level of appreciation and understanding of migrant, refugee and cultural diversity issues relating to policing.

In 2014, award winners were invited to attend the Governor's Multicultural Awards ceremony at Government House. Female award winners were also invited to attend the International Women's Day lunch held in Adelaide, as a guest of SAMEAC.

Partnership with SA Police

2013-14 has seen strengthened bonds between SAMEAC and SA Police. A regular liaison meeting schedule has been established between senior SA police officers, Multicultural SA staff and SAMEAC members, in which information about issues affecting South Australia's CALD communities is shared, and culturally appropriate responses explored.

In addition, the Chairman of SAMEAC spoke with senior staff in SA Police's human resources department about the ever-changing multicultural profile of South Australia's population, with the purpose of encouraging recruitment to the police force that is inclusive of South Australians of all backgrounds.

Honorary Consuls

The Australian Government has a long tradition of accepting Honorary Consuls, and more than half of the many consular posts established in Australian State and Territory capital cities are headed by Honorary Consular Officers. SAMEAC recognises that Honorary Consuls can make a substantial contribution to the conduct of individual bilateral relationships, especially in cases where the sending country does not maintain resident diplomatic representation in Australia.

SAMEAC maintains relationships with the many Honorary Consuls based in South Australia. In 2013-14 SAMEAC had the pleasure of welcoming Mr Dean Edgecombe, Honorary Consul of Indonesia.

REGIONAL INITIATIVES

SAMEAC has Regional Advisory Committees (RACs) in the Riverland, South East and Northern areas of South Australia. The committees, each convened by a SAMEAC member, provide advice to SAMEAC on regional multicultural issues and concerns for people from CALD backgrounds. Membership comprises representatives of communities as well as Government and non-Government organisations.

The Regional Advisory Committees' primary objectives are to focus on:

- discussions about programs and policies which address the issues and concerns of people from CALD backgrounds in the regions and
- discussions about cooperative and collaborative initiatives to assist the local communities and service agencies to provide appropriate "migrant friendly" supports and services for new migrants in regional areas.

The scope of RAC meetings includes all types of migrants from humanitarian entrants, skilled migrants and their families to international students.

In 2013–2014, the RACs continued to foster cooperation amongst, and work closely with, community, local government and regional organisations to support the regions' capacity to assist in the settlement of humanitarian entrants, skilled migrants and their families. This included significant numbers of overseas workers on temporary visas and their dependants, many of whom had little or no English.

All Regional Advisory Committee members are listed in Appendix 2.

The Riverland Regional Advisory Committee (RRAC)

The Riverland Regional Advisory Committee focuses on communities across the area where the Murray River flows into South Australia downstream to Blanchetown. Town centres in the region include Renmark, Berri, Loxton, Waikerie, Barmera and Monash. The RRAC is convened by SAMEAC Member Mr Peter Ppiros, and membership includes representation from local councils, Berri TAFE, SA Police, local media and business, and the community.

On 9-10 October 2013, SAMEAC's Chairman held a community consultation in Renmark. Those attending the meetings included a cross section of the Riverland community including members of the Sikh, Afghan, and Turkish communities.

Among the issues raised were lack of employment opportunities, water security for farmers, access to medical services, declining youth population and the potential loss of an Imam (religious leader that leads congregational prayers).

The Chairman also met with the Mayor of the Renmark Paringa Council to discuss the role of the council is assisting new and emerging communities in Renmark on matter such as a dedicated cemetery for Afghan Muslims.

The South-East Regional Advisory Committee (SERAC)

The South-Eastern Regional Advisory Committee is based in Mount Gambier, the second most populous city in South Australia. It is convened by SAMEAC member Ms Daniela Conesa. The SERAC boasts a diverse membership representing local services including the council, a community migrant group, a religious centre, a school, an aged care facility, environmental management, a mental health service and local crime prevention.

In December 2013, the Chairman travelled to Mount Gambier. It is acknowledged that Mt Gambier is still transitioning from a largely monoculture town to an increasingly multicultural town. Part of his visit included a meeting with the Principal of Mt Gambier North Primary School

It was recognised that there are a number of challenges facing the school in regards to the broad spectrum of educational levels particularly among Congolese-born students. The school recorded very few instances of racism and a number of school events and activities were organised to ensure that new arrival parents were made to feel welcome and part of the school community.

A consultation with members of the Congolese and Karen communities was held at the Limestone Coast Migrant Resource Centre situated in Mt Gambier. Both of these communities highlighted the lack of employment opportunities in the region and their concerns about the timing and locations of the Australian Citizenship test, with many having to wait several weeks and having to travel to Victoria. Other issues related to the lack of appropriate interpreter services who speak Congolese Swahili. The Karen community sought assistance to establish an Ethnic school at one of the local public schools in Mt Gambier to teach the Burmese language to approximately 30 students.

The Northern Regional Advisory Committee (NRAC)

The Northern Regional Advisory Committee is based in Whyalla and is convened by SAMEAC Deputy Chair Ms Teresa Nowak. The NRAC boasts a diverse membership representing local services including the council, a community migrant group, a religious centre, a school, an aged care facility, environmental management, a mental health service, and local crime prevention.

On December 2013 the Chairman, SAMEAC visited Whyalla for a meeting of the NRAC and other meetings with Whyalla Rotary Club, regional community, service provider and local authorities and Whyalla's Muslim community. The meeting with Whyalla Rotary Club included the official launch of the 'Peace Globe', a project sponsored by Rotary to symbolise the contribution of the migrants who have come from all over the world and settled in Whyalla. A number of issues emerged from the community consultation held with key local stakeholders. While it was acknowledged that Whyalla's history has made it a 'migrant town', several groups were experiencing issues. For example, Filipino men on working visas expressed concern about the inability of their wives and children to join them. CALD women from new and emerging communities were also experiencing isolation and needed information and support services to bring them into contact with other women to discuss shared interests.

The Chairman also visited the Whyalla Mosque, which was damaged by fire in early 2013, and had been repaired to welcome community members to pray in it again.

WOMEN'S INITIATIVES

The SAMEAC Women's Advisory Committee (WAC) was established under Section 15 of the South Australian Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Commission Act 1980, to advise SAMEAC on issues relating to women of CALD backgrounds. Its inaugural meeting was on 8 March, 2001 – International Women's Day.

The WAC's Terms of Reference are to:

- provide advice to the South Australian Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Commission through the Convenor of the Committee on programs and policies which address the issues and concerns of women from CALD background
- foster cooperation among and work closely with CALD community and CALD women's organisations on issues identified by the WAC
- recommend topics for forums and other events which raise awareness and encourage discussion on key issues for CALD women
- identify and promote the achievements and contributions of CALD women at all levels and
- foster the development of leadership skills for CALD women with emphasis on young women.

Ms Branka King is the Convenor of the WAC. Members of the WAC are from a range of cultural backgrounds, and the committee includes representation from the Office for Women. All WAC's members are listed in Appendix 2.

The Women's Leadership Course has run since 2002 with more than 200 women graduating from the program. On 24 June 2014, thirteen women graduated from the Women's Leadership Course. In 2013-14 the course was coordinated by the WAC, and jointly funded through Multicultural SA and the Skills for All initiative of DFEEST. The course is provided free of charge to participants, who graduate with a Certificate IV in Frontline Management. To date, nine Women's Leadership Courses have been conducted.

All Women's Advisory Committee members are listed in Appendix 2.

YOUTH INITIATIVES

The Youth Advisory Committee (YAC) was established in 2007 in response to the concerns of CALD community leaders about the lack of engagement of young people in the life of their communities.

The YAC was established to:

- Provide advice to the South Australian Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Commission through the convenor of the committee on programs and policies that address the issues and concerns of youth of CALD backgrounds
- Work closely with CALD community and youth organisations and foster cooperation amongst them
- Recommend to the South Australian Multicultural and Ethnic Affairs Commission topics for forums and other events that raise awareness and encourage discussion on key issues for youth of CALD backgrounds and
- Identify and promote the achievements and contributions of youth of CALD backgrounds.

Ms Sumeja Skaka has held the role of Convenor of YAC since June 2011.

Three YAC meetings were held in 2013-14. At each meeting members shared issues and concerns for young CALD people in South Australia. The group identified that is has a potential role in facilitating professional development among this population, and is exploring prospects to engage CALD young people in training and networking opportunities in 2014-15. There was also interest in engaging SAPOL to identifying the most suitable pathways for CALD young people to enter the South Australia Police Force.

All Youth Advisory Committee members are listed in Appendix 2.

INTERPRETING AND TRANSLATING SERVICES

The Interpreting and Translating Centre (ITC) provides interpreting and translating services to a wide range of private, corporate and Government clients. Through 2013-14, ITC undertook an extensive review of its administrative and operational sections and now employs nine full-time administrative staff, 289 casual interpreters and translators and two casual customer service consultants. Services offered include face-to-face interpreting sessions, interpreting over the phone, interpreting for business meetings, translations and multilingual typesetting.

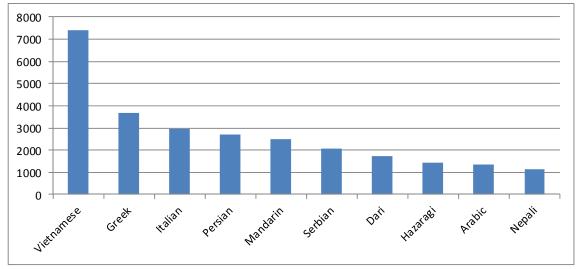

Interpreting and translating assignments

Activity around ITC's interpreting section increased significantly over 2013-14, with 37,296 assignments requested, up from 33,700 last year. Translations experienced some decline in total documents translated, down to 1,953 from 2,340 the previous year, in keeping with prior trends in this area.

Interpreting assignments requests were in 104 languages, up from 91 last year, while translating assignments remained steady across 55 languages. The ten most popular of either category appear in the tables below. Interpreting includes face-to-face interpreting, telephone interpreting and business interpreting, as well as special assignments, while translation includes a wide variety and size of documents translated to or from the designated language.

Although interpreting assignments have been requested in 104 languages, 72% of the assignments in 2013-14 were in the ten most common languages as shown in the table below. As with most recent years, Vietnamese remained the most common language for interpreting assignments, with over 7,420 assignments. 2013-14 saw Nepali replace Cantonese as the 10th most requested language with the other top 10 languages remain in similar positions to last year.

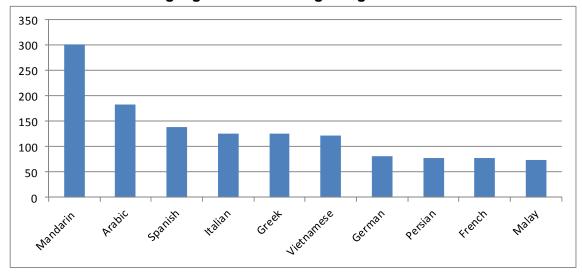

Translating assignments were requested in 55 different languages and two thirds (67%) of these assignments arise from the top ten languages, as shown in the figure below. In fact, these were also the most popular ten languages in over the past 3 years; however the order has changed consistently.

Comparing assignments over these periods Mandarin remains the most common language for translating assignments with over 300 assignments, followed by Arabic with 184 assignments. Decreases were experienced in Greek and Persian, while increased activity were seen in the other languages including Spanish, Italian and German.

Training sessions

ITC delivered a number of training sessions on 'Working with Interpreters' in 2013-14 to a range of government and private clients. These presentations aim to provide an insight into the ethics and techniques of the interpreting and translating profession, and to help client agencies communicate effectively with CALD clients.

New interpreters and translators

In 2013-14 ITC recruited and trained 20 new interpreters and translators. These recruitments represent the following languages: Burmese, Cantonese, Dari, Falie Kurdish, Hazaragi, Hindi, Italian, Kinyarwanda, Kirundi, Mandarin, Nepali, Persian, Punjabi, Sorani Kurdish, Tamil and Urdu.
